U.S. To Launch Chimp Into Space

Test To Blaze Trail for Human In Two Months

Ride To Take Ape 115 Miles High Over Atlantic Range

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Six young chimpanzees began final preparations today for a rocket ride one of them will take next week to blaze a trail for human space travel.

On Monday night, 12 hours before the scheduled launch time, medical men will decide which of the six is best fitted physically and psychologically for the jolting ride intended to take the ape 115 miles high and 290 miles down the Atlantic missile range.

If the chimp and his space capsule come through the 16-minute, 4,200-mile-an-hour ride unscathed, one of America's astronauts probably will take an identical trip into space within two months.

The upcoming flight is designed to determine how the small passenger reacts under extreme forces of acceleration and re-entry and during a five-minute period of giddy weightlessness. The chimps have been trained to perform a series of lever-pushing tasks during the ride.

A chimpanzee was selected for the journey because his body and mind most nearly resemble man's.

Four of the candidates for the flight are male, two female. They are between 3½ and 4 years old, with weights ranging from 27 to 47 pounds. During the final days before the scheduled blastoff of the Redstone booster rocket, they will undergo repeated medical checks and bone up on their lever-pushing chores.

"When the time comes for selection," a National Space Agency official reported, "we will pick a primary chimp and an alternate. If the primary animal gets cold feet, we'll use the other."

Electronic sensors will be attached to the ape's body. These will measure heart beat, body temperature respiration and task performance during flight. The animal will be zipped into a plastic couch, with only his head and arms free to move. Three hours before launch time, the couch will be fastened securely to the floor of the one-ton Project Mercury space capsule atop the rocket.

Mounted on the inner wall of the airtight couch, at the chimpanzee's chest level, will be a panel with three lights—red, white and blue—and two levers, one by each paw.

The red light will flash on just before liftoff and will remain on Missing Former Intelligence Agent Reported In U.S.

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Reliable sources said today a former U.S. intelligence employee who had been reported missing has turned up in the United States.

Martin B. Hebling, 35, of Anaheim, Calif., recently resigned his top-secret intelligence job in Berlin. Army authorities said he had been located at his home there. He disappeared nine days ago.

Hebling was a civilian employee with a classification equivalent to Army captain. His job was so secret he was not listed on published rosters.

The Army said Hebling, after resigning, was last seen Jan. 19 at Helmsstedt, the first West German town travelers from West Berlin reach after crossing 110 miles of Communist East Germany.

He was to return to the United States, the Army said, and was to have driven his car to Bremerhaven for shipment home. The car never was delivered to the port, leading to reports he was missing.

When Hebling did not show up for a government-reserved flight to the United States from Frankfurt, American forces network radio stations throughout West Germany broadcast appeals for him to report to an Army unit near Frankfurt.

Freed Fliers Head for Home Get Warm Welcome In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Air Force Capt. John R. McKone and Freeman O. Olmstead headed back toward Kansas and a reunion with their children today after almost seven months in a Russian prison.

The fliers and their wives, who greeted them here Friday, took off at 9:27 a.m. for the flight to Topeka and another formal welcome. The trip was expected to take 3 to 3½ hours.

A warm welcome from President Kennedy and their wives here Friday eased the chill of weather better suited for Siberia than Washington.

In the midst of the pomp and ceremony and a presidential greeting, both men said they wanted to go home and see their children.

The Olmsteads have a daughter, 2, and expect a second child in early March. The McKones have an eight-month-old son and two older daughters.

McKone and Olmstead had been held in a Soviet prison since their RB47 jet observation plane was shot down over the Barents Sea last July 1. Four other crewmen either were killed or are missing and presumed dead.

President Kennedy personally led the reception for the returning windswept Andrews Air Force Base.

After a tour of the White House, conducted by the President, the McKones and Olmsteads returned to Andrews Air Force Base for the night.

At Topeka, Kan., another warm welcome—in chilly, snowy weather—awaits them today. Gov. John Anderson of Kansas and Topeka

Carnegie Hall Packed for Show

Sinatra's 'Rat Pack' Performs In Benefit

NEW YORK (AP)—What presumably goes on behind closed doors when the Rat Pack meets in Hollywood went on here Friday night in full view — on the stage of Carnegie Hall.

Thousands, jammed to the roof of the venerable concert hall, and paying as much as $100 per seat for the privilege, watched "Our Leader"—Frank Sinatra—put his pack through its paces. The strange thing was that despite all the fun they and the audience had, it wasn't done for fun at all, but for a serious gentleman named Martin Luther King Jr.

"The Group," as it sometimes calls itself, included Sinatra, Dean Martin and Sammy Davis Jr. Member Peter Lawford couldn't make it nor could Joey Bishop, who was replaced by Jan Murray — "I'm not one of the clan; I sort of have a little cockroach group in the Bronx."

They were on a bill that also included Mahalia Jackson, Harry Belafonte, Count Basie and orchestra, Tony Bennett and a host of Negro performers — the ones that are so good they don't get out of town and sometimes don't even get out of Harlem.

Also appearing was Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., himself, who suggested that "a tribute to Martin Luther King" was actually a tribute to the Negroes who walked in the Montgomery, Ala., bus strike; the students who went to jail after sit-in demonstrations; and to "the hundreds of thousands of white people" joined in the Negro's battle for equal rights.

Several thousand of the latter were in his audience, for it was overwhelmingly white. The money they paid for tickets goes to the "Committee to Aid the Southern Freedom Struggle."

It was a long night—even the $100 seat holders got their money's worth—but early in the evening Sammy Davis Jr., acting as master of ceremonies, announced that "the leader has arrived," and that he was accompanied by "his drunken Italian friend."

"This drunk the audience in rapid attention for several hours while Sinatra and Martin rehearsed and put themselves in the mood backstage.

It was after midnight when Frankie made his first appearance—rushing down the aisle to interrupt Davis doing an impersonation of Sinatra.

From then on it was the Rat Pack's show. They interrupted each others' songs with insults—sometimes slightly smutty—from mikes off stage; rolled in a cart loaded with liquor bottles and poured each other drinks; paraded on and off while one of the pack was trying to perform, and generally living up to Davis' introduction: "Now comes the tumult."

RADIO IS STOLEN
Louis Manieri, manager of the Sears-Roebuck & Co. store, 165 S. Broadway, furnished police today with a description of two women who he said stole a transistor radio and radio case from the store at 3:50 p.m. Thursday. Manieri said one of the ladies got the attention of a salesman while the other woman walked off with the transistor valued at $24.93.

Father of Boy Who Shattered Boycott Fired

Plans To Enter Another Son In Integrated School

By The Associated Press
The father of the 9-year-old boy who shattered the two-month boycott by white persons of an integrated New Orleans public school was looking for another job today determined not to submit to pressure.

"I'll find another job if I have to go to the other side of hell," said John H. Thompson, 33, during an exclusive interview with The Associated Press shortly before he was informed he had been fired from his $73-a-week job.

Thompson was told of his discharge when he reported for work at 3 p.m. Friday at the drug store where he was an assistant soda fountain manager.

"Didn't Cut The Mustard"
J. C. Adams the store manager, said he knew nothing about Thompson's son attending McDonogh No. 19 school and that Thompson was ordered dismissed Thursday because "he didn't cut the mustard."

Thompson's son, Gregory, slipped unnoticed into the school Friday but was greeted by yells of "traitor" from women demonstrators when he left later accompanied by a federal marshal.

Gregory was the first white pupil to enter the three-story building in eastern New Orleans since a day or two after taken integration began last Nov. 14. Only three Negro girls have attended McDonogh classes.

The presence of the youngster set the stage for new tension in troubled New Orleans. The tension is expected to increase if Thompson goes ahead with plans to re-enter another son, now ill, in McDonogh Monday.

Came From Alabama
The Thompsons and their six children came to New Orleans from Alabama about a year ago and moved into the McDonogh neighborhood in November. Gregory and Michael, 8, entered McDonogh No. 19 and then were shifted with other white children to segregated schools in an adjoining county.

"I was raised as a segregationist," Thompson said, "but I've a mind of my own. I lived with Negroes in the service (Army) and I know that no black rubbed off on me. I know integration has got to come and there's no use trying to live like a hundred years ago."

In Atlanta, the Georgia Legislature moved swiftly to replace the state's rigid school segregation laws with a local control plan designed to hold integration to a minimum.

Action was completed — except for correction of a typographical error—on three bills and a proposed constitutional amendment prepared by Gov. Ernest Vandiver. The governor is expected to receive the proposals for signature the first of the week.

The measures represent a shift

Woman Injured In Traffic Collision

A district woman was injured in one of two accidents on slippery area highways Friday.

Helen F. Emish, 47, of 1135 Western Reserve Rd., Poland, suffered multiple abrasions of her face, arms and legs when she was thrown out of her car after it collided with another auto on Rt. 7, near North Lima at 12:55 p.m. She was treated by a physician.

The State Highway Patrol said Mrs. Emish was headed south on Rt. 7 when she skidded on the icy pavement, crossed the center line and struck an oncoming car operated by William Scullion, 34, of Belle Vernon, Pa. Scullion was not injured.

No one was hurt in an accident at 7:10 p.m. Friday on Twp. Rd. 925 near Cannons Mills. The car involved were operated by James L. Williams, 34, of East Liverpool and Nicholas Carl Zellers, 21, of Wellsville.

According to the Patrol, both drivers were turning east off Rt. 30 onto Twp. Rd. 925. As Williams made the turn, he observed a stalled auto on the road and stopped. Zellers couldn't get stopped on the slippery road and slid into Williams.

McCammon Is GOP Mayor Candidate

Salem Republicans at an organizational meeting Friday night, selected a nearly-complete slate of candidates for the May primary election, their ticket to be headed by Oscar L. McCammon of W. Fifth St. as the candidate for mayor.

McCammon, a city service department employee for many years, has worked under both Republican and Democratic administrations.

He was street foreman for four years during present Mayor Dean Crammer's previously term of office, 1954 to '57 and also was street foreman when Harold Smith was mayor from 1958 to 1959. He was employed in the service department years earlier.

Mayor Crammer, a Democrat, already has filed for re-election, to seek his fourth term.

The Republicans last night announced their other primary candidates as:

For president of Council: Michael Schuller who is now in office. City solicitor: Atty. Scott McCorkhill, who, as an independent, was named to the office by Mayor Crammer several months ago to fill a vacancy.

Council-at-Large: Arthur Hanna and Carl Abe present councilmen, and a newcomer, Richard L. Cournad.

First Ward: Rudy M. Linder, a former veteran councilman.

Second Ward: Donald C. Cannon, incumbent.

Third Ward: (no candidate).

Fourth Ward: Ralph K. Zimmerman, incumbent, and George L. Conrad.

6 Americans Face Trial on Cuban Charge

HAVANA (AP)—Six Americans charged with trying to join anti-Castro rebels were to go on trial today before a military tribunal in ancient La Cabana fortress. They faced death at the execution wall.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime, which by unofficial count already has shot 589 persons, including three Americans, said the six sailed from Marathon Key, Fla., and were captured entering Havana harbor Jan. 7.

They are George R. Beck, 24 of Norton Mass.; Tommy L. Baker, 28 of Dothan Ala.; Donald Joe Green, 28, of Clover S.C.; James E. Bean 34 of Ceda Falls N.C.; Alfred Eugene Gibson, 32, of Durham, N.C. and Leonard Louis Schmidt 21 of Chicago.

The Americans were charged with "crimes against the security of the state" a general accusation covering conspiracy—a crime punishable with death by firing squad.

Councillor Gilbert De Dardel of the Swiss Embassy, which is caring for U.S. interests in Cuba, said he had been advised the Cubans

The orders to dispatch Smith came after a report that Galvao had sent a new radio message to Dennison but the details were not disclosed.

A Navy public relations officer, James Harrington, told newsmen in San Juan, "you had better go to Belem. That's where the big story will break within 16 hours."

Commissioners Fire 6 Employees

The Columbiana County commissioners Friday authorized the governing power of the Tuberculosis Control Clinic be transferred from three trustees to the Columbiana County Health Board.

Continuing a meeting adjourned from Thursday, the commissioners also rehired six county employees and discharged six others, effective Feb. 1.

At the board's meeting Jan. 16, Commissioners Walter Hunston of East Palestine and Galen Griesen of Salem asked the Health Board to assume control of the TB clinic, which is adjacent to the Columbiana County Health Department offices in the Court-house, citing the interest of economy.

Two years ago the Democratic-controlled commissioner's board transferred control of the TB clinic to a three-man board of trustees. The trustees were Dr. William Z. Sulkes of East Liverpool; J. R.

Bodies of Three Found; Search On for Others

Walls Crash Down Without Warning In $500,000 Plant Fire

CHICAGO (AP)—The walls of a burning six-story factory building collapsed suddenly today, burying 15 or more firemen under tons of wreckage.

Bodies of three firemen were quickly recovered. Bodies of two others were reported located in the ruins. Six or more others, including two battalion chiefs, were missing and believed under the debris.

At least eight fire fighters were dug from the ruins and hospitalized with injuries.

The extra-alarm blaze was brought under control about two hours after it erupted, causing an estimated $500,000 damage.

Chief Fire Marshal Raymond Daly, who estimated the damage, said he believed six or more firemen still were buried in the wreckage. He said at least two were known to have been on the second floor when the walls collapsed.

Daly and Dr. Harold P. Sullivan, fire department physician, said most of the dead and injured firemen were trapped by the sudden collapse of the rear wall of the building. They said 20 or more firemen were near the wall when it came down.

Rescuers used acetylene torches to cut through steel beams in efforts to reach trapped men who might still be alive.

Daly said the remaining three of the walls of the building collapsed minutes after the rear wall toppled.

The building, at 614 W. Hubbard St., housed the Hilker and Bleich Co., a bakery supply firm, and several other factory operations. It quickly spread to a three-story factory building occupied by Crown Glass, Inc., and burned out the structure. Two walls of the Crown building also collapsed.

Police said they were told there were no workers in either of the buildings when the blaze erupted about 6:30 a.m.

6 Prisoners Flee Through Hole In Steubenville Jail

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio AP — Six prisoners escaped from the Jefferson County Jail here early today by gouging a hole through a brick wall of the first-floor bullpen.

Deputy Sheriff Russell Wilsac said the prisoners broke a bar from one of the windows and used it to chisel a hole about 18 inches square through the wall. They squeezed through the hole and dropped eight feet to the ground.

Deputies discovered the break in time to prevent five others in the bullpen from escaping. Wilsac said one of the five had his head through the hole.

He identified the escapes as Harvey A. Woodland Jr., 18, of Steubenville, held on a charge of automobile theft; John W. Bucy, 18, Steubenville auto theft; Mike L. Kavanaugh 21, Steubenville, breaking and entering and parole violation; Homer D. Jones, 32, Annapolis Ohio, cattle stealing and parole violation and David Carpenter 23, Adena, Ohio grand larceny.

Cypryla Charged With Assaulting FBI Agents

CLEVELAND (AP)—A preliminary hearing has been set for Feb. 20 for Frank Cypryla, 32, of Akron, on a charge of assaulting two FBI agents. The agents had attempted to question him Jan. 18 about a bank robbery near Youngstown.

Cypryla was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner H. A. Horn Friday and demanded a hearing. Cypryla had engaged in a gun battle with federal agents and police in Youngstown after he disarmed an FBI agent. Less than a week later he was captured near Massillon after being wounded in another gunfight with officers. Cypryla was taken to county jail in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Confident Living

By Dr. NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Faith Helps to Shape Events

How mysteriously things happen in the lives of people who have the genius to be sufficiently simple to have great faith!

During a visit to the Holy Land I was fortunate in forming the friendship of S. James Mattar. He has a most remarkable history.

Dr. Peale

He is a Christian Arab now living in Jerusalem, Jordan. He was once an official of Barclays Bank. But that was in the other part of the city, the part now lying within the boundaries of Israel.

Like many other Arabs, Mr. Mattar lost his job and home and all his possessions in hostilities of over a decade ago. He and his wife with their eight young children escaped across the embattled border and made their way to Bethany in Jordan. There they arrived unharmed, but practically penniless. Dark days followed. A time came when Mattar had exactly two shillings to his name and no prospects of more money or any way of providing his family with food.

But this man had an unquestioning faith in God. Gathering his wife and children around him, he humbly asked God's blessing for each of them and prayed for guidance. As he prayed he got the distinct impression that he was to take some empty baskets and go to the market place, accompanied by Samuel, his eldest son. So, picking up a basket, he told the boy to take one too and come along.

ON THE WAY TO THE market Samuel said, "But, Papa, we have no money."

Mattar simply told him, "This is what the Lord has told me to do."

At the market they sat down and waited for what would happen next. Presently a man came toward them through the crowd, greeting Mattar with the words, "How glad I am to see you! I have had you on my mind these days and wondered how I might locate my old friend."

It was a former employee of Barclays Bank. The two men chatted awhile. Mattar said nothing about the dire straits he was in. But at length the other man, in a hesitant, embarrassed way, drew from his pocket a five pound note—roughly the equivalent of fourteen dollars U.S. money. He said, "Would it be presumptuous to think that perhaps you are having difficulties? I would like you to accept this for friendship's sake." Mattar was so overwhelmed that he could scarcely utter his thanks. As soon as young Samuel found himself alone once more with his father, he asked, "Papa, did you know that man was going to pass by?"

Mattar replied, "No, Sammy, I did not. We are in God's hands. You have just seen a demonstration of His providence."

THE PROVISIONS purchased with the five pounds tided the Mattar family over until help reached them in the form of United Nations relief. Later on, Mr. Mattar found means of self-support. Today he is comfortably well off. And he has the rare privilege of being keeper of the Garden Tomb, which is believed to have been the tomb belonging to Joseph of Arimathea in which the body of Jesus lay. He is one of my most spiritually inspiring friends.

Pondering Mr. Mattar's experience at the Bethany market place, I am struck by the thought that it could not have happened if he had not had faith enough to act as he felt he had been bidden in response to his prayer—even though he had no inkling what could come of going empty-handed to the market.

AMONG THE LETTERS written to me by readers of this column, there is one which tells of how the writer's faith has been strengthened as the result of a period of deep trouble beginning about five years ago.

"I felt," the letter says, "as though I were in a dense, dark forest. In desperation I repeated the Lord's Prayer over and over, a dozen times a day. No spectacular events took place immediately. Little by little, however, I began to notice that always I could see one step ahead—and after I had taken that step, something would happen to enable me to see another step.

"A feeling came over me that some power was at work. I then began to think about God in earnest. I saw that in times of crisis something always happened that saved the day—not something planned by me, but some queer, unexpected circumstance. And I saw that the hard things in my life had worked for my good."

For a person with the faith and courage to deal with difficulties a step at a time and leave tomorrow row's problems and decisions in God's hands, circumstances often seem to develop in strangely beneficent ways.

Faith does not necessarily get us everything we want. But it does make good things possible which otherwise would not come to pass. It does shape events.

BRIDGE TO GOD'S WORLD

The bridge, what a miracle! Tons of steel hanging in air . . . spanning miles of water . . . supporting an unending line of cars like so many ants.

And what a boon to man! The bridge saves untold hours and opens up new vistas of life.

The bridge of prayer, what a miracle! Spanning Heaven and Earth . . . carrying the needs and hopes of believing hearts. What a boon to man! The bridge of prayer opens up new paths of creative living and vistas into the realm of Heaven.

In Church you can discover prayer—the bridge which leads to God's world.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Put Away the 'Most Wanted' List

We doubt if many Americans took seriously those earlier reports that the head "revolvers" were going to revise federal taxes in the people's favor this year. This is one of those sunburst stories that come out of Washington periodically, like the reduction in the number of federal employees. It never pans out that way. Year by year the federal payroll grows and grows and grows.

If anyone has been holding his breath waiting for federal tax reform, exhale. Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., says the income tax might be done over during the Kennedy administration, but if it is done over it will take a long time. Nothing will be done this year, says Rep. Mills.

This letdown after a long buildup is typical of the story of tax reform in the United States. Volumes have been filled with testimony and studies to show how many things about the federal income tax need reforming.

THEY RANGE from galling little inequities like tax-deductible items allowed to one group of taxpayers and denied to other groups to the complex problem of how to keep corporation taxes from stifling job-making enterprise.

There isn't a man-jack of a taxpayer in the United States who couldn't stand up and speak for 15 minutes on what is wrong with the federal income tax and make sense most of the time. No one ever has claimed that the jerry-built income tax law is defensible. Everybody has been waiting and hoping for years for such overdue changes as realistic allowances for college-attending dependents, now listed in the same category as 13-year-olds attending public schools and living at home.

Nothing was listened to more attentively during the campaign than hints of tax reform. Economists have agreed for years that if the tax laws of the United States were used as methodically to build up business as they have been used in some instances to tear down business there could be an economic break-through that would throw the Kremlin into a tailspin.

BUT IN THE YEAR when reform had been inked, the chairman of the committee that would have to take the initiative dismisses the proposition with a wave of the hand. Rep. Mills, moreover, had been one of the sources of tax-reform talk. He has conducted hearings on the subject and made a special study of it.

We doubt if many Americans had compiled lists of the things they wanted most and would buy if something were done to let them keep more money while some other poor sucker coughed up what he owed—the basic philosophy of most tax reform enthusiasts.

But if any really had taken the talk seriously, they'd better put away their "most wanted" lists and start to make the usual list of what can be dispensed with come April 15 when the day of reckoning with the U.S. Treasury arrives.

The election is over. The taxing goes on as usual.

No Formula For Dignity

Among the sour notes in the Great Transition on the Potomac, none is sorer than the lament of the mechanists.

Do not confuse "mechanists" with "mechanics." Mechanics do not have to apologize for themselves. Mechanists do.

Mechanists think life operates like machinery; that everything can be predetermined by formula and theater will proceed without a hitch.

The Eisenhower administration could have done worse, admit the mechanists, but their objection is that it didn't do better. This was because it made the mistake of depending on principles, ethics and human relations, instead of on mechanistic formulas for stimulating American society, they say.

Instead of striving for an index of growth that would have been satisfactory for mechanistic economists, they complain, it settled for something less. Whatever progress was registered during its eight years was the result of counting on people to do their best, instead of counting on formulae to do their best. There was woeful disregard of people who have been telling everybody for the last 30 years how to manage the economy the way a teamster manages a horse. The mechanists are angry about this.

THIS IS a sour note in Washington. It remains to be seen how the economic

And a Bottle of Rum!

There's been so much news about pirates in the paper the last few days that one of the girls in the office thought baseball season had started.

The Pittsburgh Pirates of Danny Murtaugh murdered the Yankees and hijacked baseball's world championship, but they weren't as mean as the Portuguese Pirates of Hermano Malta Galvao. At least the Pittsburgh Pirates didn't kill anyone even though they broke the hearts of a lot of Yankee fans.

This is just one view of the hijacking of the cruise ship Santa Maria.

Here's another: Can you imagine the plight of a vacationer aboard the Santa Maria trying to convince the boss he was late getting back from vacation because his ship was nabbed by pirates?

"Santa Maria!" exclaims the boss. "Piracy went out with sailing ships!"

John Q. Citizen, who can always be depended on to criticize any and all administrations if in the mood, is a warm rooster for President Kennedy. But he is divesting himself of all holdings that would involve him in a conflict of interests, just in case.

"I have sold the two shares I have in a paper company and one share in a pen corporation so nobody can ever say I write letters to the editor just to boost paper and pen sales," he said today.

"I am putting in trust three shares in a tomahawk corporation so if I use such things on anybody in Washington there will be no conflict of interest."

"The half share I hold in a brickyard I am turning over to a cousin so if I should happen to toss a few bricks at any cabinet officer I will feel it ethical."

A committee examining him asked: "What about your reported holdings in a big tomato farm?" "I am not a tomato thrower at either the Democrats or Republicans and I resent the question," was his firm reply.

Q. Have you any stock in a telegraph corporation?

A. No sir. When I send wires to Washington demanding action on something I don't want it said I am knocking the United States while helping a telegraph company.

Q. Any drug company interests?

A. I had one share but gave it to my little boy. If I got all out of shape criticizing the government I want to buy whatever pills I need without a conflict of interest.

Q. Have you anything else to confess?

A. Yes. I gave away my membership in a political club on account of I get full of beer at the jambakes and sound off on how to run the country, it will be as a neutral.

Q. Have you any railroad stocks?

A. I have an unpunched ticket on the New Haven Railroad which I will dispose of so it will not influence me in my attitude toward any Democratic action in a transportation crisis.

Q. How about the rumor your wife is a Republican reactionary who is always influencing you in your political views?

A. I intend to dispose of her, putting her in trust with her old lady so this influence will not exist.

Old U.N. Hand Back In Action

Election Law Reform

By RAYMOND MOLEY

"Don't tell me about pigs," Khrushchev boomed when he was in Iowa in 1959. "I know all about pigs and all about farming. I am a man of the soil."

He is, indeed, an earthy man, at home in the porcine world. But it is beginning to appear that he doesn't know all about farming. And that lack of knowledge is beginning to cause unhappy rumblings in his New Frontier.

The major trouble is in the great regions straddling the border between Asia and Europe. One of those regions is Kazak S.S.R. It is now revealed that the grain crop there is some 3 million tons short of expectations.

The Kazak is an area one-third as large as the United States. It consists of dry steppes and runs from the 50th parallel of latitude on the north to south of the 40th parallel.

It borders on European Russia and the Caspian Sea on the west, touches Iran and Afghanistan on the south, and extends to China on the east.

It is as large as a section which would include the northern third of Missouri, all of Iowa, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Minnesota and on into Canada as far as Winnipeg.

THE KAZAK is a vast livestock region. The problems faced by Khrushchev there are exactly the same as those that faced our own farmers in the 1930s.

One cannot break the sod on the great prairies where rainfall is light and hope to keep the land in production.

For a while, as long as the rich humus of the prairie sod holds the moisture, the land will give forth. But once the moisture has been exhausted, the soil takes flight with the winds.

That is what has happened in the Kazak.

The Soviet mentality, firmly holding the dogma that the state knows best, cannot comprehend the fact that the land must be cozened and nursed like an infant. The one who can do that best is the man who lives with it and depends upon it for his livelihood.

The state can help him but he must be free to experiment.

Under the iron rules of Communism, if the land refuses to produce, it must be starved. And the land, like the peasant, must work or starve. But the land, unlike a man, recognizes no incentive.

To deny it fertilizer and chemicals is to reduce it to impotence. To the Communist bureaucrat, land is either fertile or barren.

The American farmer, in an atmosphere of freedom, realizes that the land has a potential which ingenuity can develop.

In our great plains farmers found, after trial and error and tribulation, that if strips of land are left fallow between strips of grain, there will be enough moisture retained from the slim rainfall to raise grain and also to keep the soil from blowing away.

From what this or that farmer learned by his experiments, the government was able to inform many other farmers.

THE KNOWLEDGE had to come from what free farmers knew. It could not find birth in Washington, although Washington could provide printing presses and agents to carry the knowledge.

In Russia there is what so many fatuous economists tried without success to foist upon the early Roosevelt administration—central government economic planning.

In Russia almost half the labor force of the country is struggling to feed only Russia. Over here, only 10 per cent of our population is engaged in farming and our production is far beyond our needs and must flow out to the rest of the world.

True, as Khrushchev said, he knows all about pigs. But his iron-clad dogmatic mind knows little of man and what freedom can help man to achieve.

He complains that his bureaucrats have been giving out false statistics. But the slavish servants of the state are of his choice and fear of his whip is what made them produce false figures when they could not produce food.

SIDE GLANCES

"I've been admiring your eyelashes! Mind if I try them on?"

Labor In Gold Debate

By MARTIN ARUNDEL

Big labor has plunged into the debate over the U.S. dollar-gold crisis with a charge that "spokesmen for reaction" are exploiting the problem to block wage increases and the passage of welfare legislation.

The AFL-CIO Economic Policy Committee, headed by auto workers union president, Walter Reuther, claims that unidentified "big business interests" have coined "slogans" that have "already distorted the balance of payments issue into a fear symbol."

This was done, the laborites contend, "to fight necessary wage increases — both the higher federal minimum and collective bargaining gains — to oppose low interest rates, as well as foreign imports and foreign aid and to call for a balanced budget at any cost."

The labor economists take particular exception to the argument that high American wages have "priced" this country's goods out of the world market.

THE UNITED STATES was "competitive enough in the world market in 1960 to sell more than $4.5 billion to other nations than it bought from them," the unionists declared.

"The trouble lies elsewhere than in foreign trade," AFL-CIO President George Meany said in an editorial written for the February issue of the "American Federationist."

The Reuther committee asserted that "attempts to curb imports would merely mean that fewer U.S.-made products could be purchased by nations abroad who rely upon selling to us."

Conceding that this country's unfavorable balance in international payments and the outflow of gold are critical problems, the unionists argued that would not be solved by "negative policies."

They lumped all the retrenchment suggestions so far advanced by the alleged reactionaries as the same ones made by the same groups "in a phony crusade against inflation in the 1950s" and "helped cause the three recessions of the last seven years."

The laborites maintain that confidence in the United States and the dollar depends on "a strong, expanding economy, not on slick sloganized policies that have repeatedly led to recessions."

THE REUTHER committee's statement declared that "a healthy, growing domestic economy" would be a large part of the solution to the dollar-gold crisis.

"That kind of economy would offer the strongest possible inducement for foreign capital to retain and increase its investments in America and for American capital to remain at home," the laborites contend.

The Reuther committee said it would further study the dollar-gold problem and come up with some specific suggestions for its solution after consultation with "established authorities on monetary policy."

Labor observers regard the AFL-CIO's entrance into the dollar-gold debate as further evidence that the federation leaders intend to press for a voice in the formulation of both domestic and foreign policies under the Kennedy administration.

Unaccustomed As We Are

By TRUMAN TWILL

A few nights ago, this lady who goes out of her way to coax me into a state of intellectual grace invited me to be her guest at one of the dinner-speaker horrors everybody goes to during the winter.

It was the customary setup—a dinner, to be followed by an out-of-towner who would bring the by-then sodden diners an inspirational message that would hit them with the same impact as a second helping of half-melted dessert.

I declined.

"I would not go to ear Demosthenes crack jokes with Bob Hope," I said, in effect. "Your thoughtfulness is appreciated, but as my life span is frittered away day by day, I have less tolerance for public speaking."

"I consider it to be a social faucet that has been allowed to drip drip, drip because no one has the gumption either to turn it off tight, or if that cannot be done, put on a new washer. Moreover, being full of despair about man's ability to look out for himself, I am ready in some circumstances to turn off public speaking all the way back to the main valve."

"You have forgotten, if you ever knew it, but this is one of two social stenchers I have struggled to overcome. The other one has been replaced from time to time. It once was picnics, which finally ceased to be hardship occasions and became civilized, thanks to better equipment."

"Then for a while it was Mussolini, who was brought to a tardy but fitting termination by an Italian mob. For some time, it was a certain politician and people who believed everything he said, which was a tissue of lies. Currently, it is the misuse of the public streets I own in part by chiselers who store their automobiles thereon while decent citizens put their automobiles away at their own expense."

"But whereas other things have their season and pass away, public speaking drones on and on and on. It is not enough to come together in friendship over a non-home-cooked meal and to laugh and be jolly with one's fellow men. There must be the anti-climax of a speech by someone who, if he is articulate enough to perform for pay is too expensive for the outfits you are cozy with and who otherwise is speaking from fright or from vanity and in either case isn't worth the creases that will be put into your clothing while you sweat out his performance."

"It all goes back to a time when people had no way to communicate, except by word of mouth on direct contact. Every speaker was a wise man, a preceptor, or a messenger. Primitive people who lived too much to themselves were bemused by the spectacle of a fellow human being who had so much to say he could keep his trap open for an hour at a time."

"They would listen to anyone who would talk, in the same way as friends and relatives once listened to little kids play the piano or the violin."

"But a new day is here. If a human has something to say today, he can record it. He can write it. He can take a picture of it. But he does not have to make a speech about it to people who refuse to be a party to such nonsense as public speaking."

"Any questions?"

So They Say

You can't legislate against romance, and throughout the ages, Russians have traditionally been a very romantic people. Perhaps this basic kinship of peoples may prove stronger than their political differences.

—Singer Jennie Tourel, citing famous Russian love songs.

We only have one party because a party represents a kind of people. In Russia we have only one kind, the working class. —Russian tourist Victor Kostyuchenko.

The first men on the moon will have faced so many dangers, I don't think one more will make much difference. —British astronomer Patrick Moore, on the possibility of volcanoes on the moon.

Salem Fights Off Stubborn Wellsville Five to Win 47-43

Quakers Paced By Beery, Eskay

Large Crowd Sees Locals Rack Up Ninth Straight With Clutch Plays

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

A tall but poor shooting Wellsville team battled highly rated Salem right down to the wire last night before the Quakers came up with some clutch plays in a bitterly contested fourth quarter to win 47-43.

Although the Tigers dropped their fifth game in nine starts while Salem was winning its ninth in a row and 10th in 12 games, Wellsville stayed tight on Salem's heels all evening. The biggest lead the Quakers were able to pile up was seven points midway through the second quarter.

Unlike Salem, Wellsville was never able to come up with the big play to keep a rally going. The Tigers led only three times in the close tilt and on each occasion it was their ace Bob Kiggins who put them ahead. The 6-3 senior's foul shot opened the scoring in the game. Two minutes later he caged a goal which put Wellsville into a 7-6 lead.

THE ONLY OTHER TIME in the fray that Wellsville led came with 2:22 remaining in the third quarter when a foul shot by Kiggins put the Tigers on top, 33-33. But, always Salem had what it took to come back.

A pair of foul shots by 6-3 senior Rod Ferguson tied up the contest at 3-39 with just 5:13 left.

Salem then exploded for five straight points. Don Davidson hit a foul to break the tie and sent Salem on top, 40-39. Sharpshooting Bob Eskay then jumped in a two-point and the always alert Bill Beery came back almost two minutes late to follow up a missed shot by Eskay and give the Quakers a 44-39 advantage with only 1:27 remaining.

Wellsville then cut the margin to 44-41 with a two-point shot by Davidson to get the five-point lead back again with a beautiful drive. Beery's foul shot made the score 47-41 before the Tigers connected on a final basket to make the score read, 47-43.

TAKING DOWN SCORING honors for Salem was 5-10 junior guard Bob Eskay who jumped in 15 points which equaled his high for the season. Sophomore Bill Beery was runner-up in the scoring department with 15 markers.

Beery and Eskay accounted for 26 of Salem's 28 points in the first half. A second period goal by Davidson brought the only other two counters. Beery was hitting on short jump shots from the side and Eskay was banging away with uncanny accuracy from out front.

Davidson opened up a little in the second half and wound up with nine points, considerably under his 18.1 average. The Tigers also bottled up 6-5½ junior Ted Thorne who was held to one field goal and three fouls for five points.

Salem's other starter, John Borrelli, and Gary Jeffries, the only substitute Coach John Cabas used, both failed to score.

Wellsville's big gun was Kiggins who hooped 16 markers. The tall senior had been averaging 19.5 points per fray.

The Quakers were up against a

N. Lima Hands 60-42 Defeat to Jackson-Milton

Jackson-Milton, which has yet to win a game this year, put up a game fight but folded in the final quarter to lose 60-42 to North Lima in a contest on the winners' court Friday night.

The victory is the third for the Zippers against 10 defeats. The Blue Jays have lost 13.

Louis Day was the big gun for the victors, netting 19 markers. Ward Manchester was right behind with 18.

Harry Daugherty paced the losers with 14.

North Lima vaulted into a 16-10 first-period lead, but the Blue Jays closed the gap to 27-25 by the intermission. The Zippers pulled away again 41-32 in the third stanza.

The North Lima Reserves made it a clean sweep, overcoming their Jackson-Milton counterparts 50-45.

team last night that matched them in height. Besides 6-3 Kiggins, Wellsville had three other boys playing most of the way who stretched above 6-0. They were Steve Baldwin, 6-4 sophomore; Phil Baldwin, 6-1 senior; and Rodney Ferguson, 6-3 senior. Rodney Ours, 5-8 junior was the small man on this unit.

OF THESE FIVE, only Kiggins and Steve Baldwin were starters. However, Coach Jack McDivitt soon switched to his taller boys to combat Salem's height. The maneuver paid off. The Tigers stayed right with the Quakers in the battle of the boards.

Wellsville hit only 15 of 51 shots from the floor for a poor 29.4 per cent. Salem canned 20 of 53 for 37.7 per cent. The Tigers almost pulled the game out at the foul line where they hit an amazing 13 of 14 attempts. The Quakers were only seven for 13 from the foul stripe.

Jack McDivitt, the Tigers' personable young coach who has given Wellsville some of its finest basketball over the past few years, said his strategy last night was to try to get a lead and then "sit" on the ball.

The Tigers did play a very deliberate brand of basketball but they never got in a position where they could afford to sit on the ball very long. If they had been hitting from the floor, the outcome might have been different.

COACH MCDIVITT said he had seen Salem play earlier this season and was aware that the Quakers weren't up to par last night. "It's a sign of a good ball club when you can be off and still get by," the coach commented. "When we've been off it has cost us."

Quaker Coach John Cabas remarked, "One thing we found out about our kids last night is that they really have heart. I was glad to see Wellsville keep the game close. They played a fine game against us. I was glad to see them stay close because I wanted to see the heart of our team."

"Now we know that Davidson can come up with the big play—that Beery can come up with the big play—that Eskay can come up with the big play."

"And by big play, I don't mean just scoring. Did you see how Eskay came up with three rebounds there near the end of the game?" "Davidson wasn't having a good night, but he came through with that basket; when we needed it," Coach Cabas continued. "And how about that Beery's rebounding!" (Beery led the Quakers in rebounding last night with 12).

THE CROWD last night was one of the best of the season. It probably topped 2,000.

There was quite a bit of excitement around the scorer's table at the close of the first half. A Wellsville cager had connected on a shot from the side almost as the buzzer sounded. The officials ruled that the shot came after the buzzer, but the Wellsville faculty manager and their high school principal rushed out of the stands and made a rather loud protest to the timer. The Wellsville coach made no protest.

Just before the start of the varsity game last night, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Whinnery of 1508 N. Ellsworth Ave. presented Miss Helle Jensen, 1960-61 Basketball Queen, a gold basketball while Miss Pat Kaercher, 1959-60 Queen, assisted with the ceremony.

Salem will return to action at the local gym tonight when a strong Akron South quintet gets a crack at snapping the Quakers' nine-game winning streak. The reserve game is billed at 7 p.m. with the varsity battle to follow at about 8:30.

QUAKERS WIN CLOSE ONE — Two of the tallest teams in the area, Salem and Wellsville, battled to almost a standoff in the rebounding department last night in the Salem Senior High gym. Superior shooting paid off in a 47-43 victory for the Quakers. In the top photo, Salem's Don Davidson, 6-5, rams home a layup as Wellsville's Steve Baldwin, 6-4, makes a vain effort to stop the shot. No. 31 for Wellsville is 6-1 Phil Baldwin. No. 4 is guard John Borrelli of the Quakers. Below, Salem's Ted Thorne, 6-5½, has his shot blocked by Rodney Ferguson, 6-3, of the Tigers.

E. Palestine Drops Lisbon

Blue Devils Put Up Fight, Lose 60-47

A full court press by East Palestine proved too much for the Lisbon Blue Devils and the Bulldogs dropped Lisbon 60 to 47 Friday night in Lisbon's David Anderson High School gym.

The Lisbon fans had to take consolation in Coach Bob Theiss' Reserves' 44 to 36 victory over the Palestine Pups. It was the fifth win for Lisbon's secondary squad.

In the varsity tilt, Lisbon traded basket for basket and held a two-point lead at the end of the first quarter but Palestine changed it to a 31-21 lead to their advantage at halftime and held a seven-point margin, 41-34, as the third period ended.

Lisbon threatened momentarily in the fourth quarter but East Palestine's Jim Hartshorn dumped in six buckets in that stanza and the outcome never was in doubt.

Hartshorn's 15 points were matched by Jim McCloskey's 15, while Jerry Bush, with 14, also helped the Bulldogs on to victory.

Craig Pannier, a Lisbon sophomore, swished the hoops seven times for 14 points to take scoring honors for his team, while Roger McCaughin, with four baskets and four charity tosses, had 12 points. Despite the loss, Lisbon played a good game.

Leetonia invades the Lisbon gym next Friday.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Laurence Owens, a 16 year-old miss from a championship family, is the new queen of United States figure skating.

The Winchester, Mass., high school senior glided over the ice in a brilliant free skating exhibition Friday night to take over the crown vacated by Mrs. Carol Hess Jenkins, who turned pro to accept movie offers after winning the 1960 Olympic title.

Miss Owens lagged in second place after the compulsory figures skating but overcame that deficit with a display of creative artistry that sent her whizzing past Stephanie Westerfeld, 17, home town favorite from Colorado Springs who was in front after the figures.

United Tastes Victory Again

Drops Gnadenhutten By 58 to 40 Score

The height of United's Eagles and Jerry Schaffer in particular was too much for the visiting Gnadenhutten team Friday and United won 58 to 40.

Six foot-one Schaffer found the hoop for 11 field tosses and one foul shot to lead his teammates in scoring with 23 points. Don Mayer had five baskets and two free throws for 12 points.

United took a comfortable 17-7 lead in the first quarter and was never threatened. Mayer, along with Larry Marks, pulled down most of the rebounds to give United good control of the ball.

Coach Larry Joseph's boys shot 23.5 per cent from the field, as compared to the Tuscarawas county school's 26.8 per cent, but United's accuracy was best in the first half.

From the foul stripe, United made 4 out of 14 for 28 per cent, while Gnadenhutten had 16 out of 27 for 59 per cent.

SouthernCalRolls74-51Over
Air Force; UCLA Is Winner

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Southern California, acting more and more like the best Trojan troupe in Forrest Twogood's 11 years as coach, is moving smoothly toward next week's showdown with UCLA which could determine the West Coast's major challenger for college basketball honors.

The Trojans, ninth-ranked nationally, pushed their winning streak to six and their season record to 13-2 Friday night, 74-51 over Air Force. The victory wrapped up a doubleheader at the Los Angeles Arena, which opened with UCLA (11-3) routing Denver 85-64, and gave basketball's top ten members a split in scattered Friday night action after a couple of weeks of mid-term examinations. Seventh-ranked St. John's, the only other rated team playing, was spilled to its third defeat in 13 games—60-57 at St. Louis, as the defense-minded Billkins held All-America Tony Jackson to three field goals and 11 points.

The coast to coast schedule picks up considerably today and tonight, featured by an afternoon clash at Columbus, Ohio, between unbeaten, top-ranked Ohio State and its great All-America Jerry Lucas, against Olympic teammate Terry Dischinger and the 10th-ranked Purdue Boilermakers. Third-ranked Bradley (13-1) entertains Marquette at Peoria in the national TV afternoon game, and fifth-ranked Duke (13-1) comes off its mid-term exam break for an afternoon test with Clemson.

Temple (12-4) with Bruce Drysdale scoring 30 points, took over first place from LaSalle in the Middle Atlantic Conference by whipping the Explorers 63-57, and The Citadel moved to within a half-game of West Virginia in the Southern Conference battle, beating Richmond 89-80 as Gary Daniels and Dan Howe each hit for 23.

Oregon State won its 10th against four defeats 58-48 over Portland, as jump-shooting Jim Woodland scored 22 points, and Brigham Young rode 25 points from Gary Earnest to a 75-57 Skyline Conference victory over slumping Utah State.

Jan oudemilk's hook shot with five seconds left gave Southern Methodist a 66-67 thriller over Oklahoma City, and Tennessee Tech snapped a six-game Ohio Valley Conference losing streak edging Eastern Kentucky 86-84 on Tom McKenney's pair of free throws with five seconds left in overtime.

Sophomore Bob King popped in 11 and junior Jerry Wornhans added 10. Powell was high for Wellsville with seven points. Salem was never in trouble. The Quaker Jaycees held quarter leads of 15-6, 29-14, and 42-18.

The Tibbers had a tough time trying to stop Salem from driving down the key for easy layups. Jeffries, Sam Watson and Allen Ewing were particularly effective in driving the middle. Big 6-4 King and 6-2 Wornhans dominated the boards for Salem.

The Quakers showed good teamwork and ran their patterns well. Their shooting, however, at times was erratic.

The Quaker Jaycees have dropped only one game this season—a 51-42 reverse at the hands of Akron Central in the Akron University gym in Salem's third game of the season.

Formation of AAU
Volleyball Team
Here Considered

C. F. "Rusty" Tomlinson, manager of the Memorial Building, reports that the formation of an AAU power volleyball team in Salem which would take on top teams in the area is being considered.

Anyone interested in joining such a team is requested to report to the Memorial Building at 6 p.m. Tuesday for practice. Tomlinson says that practices will be held every Tuesday for about an hour and a half.

The Rev. Robert Shoff of East Palestine, who has played AAU volleyball for the Youngstown YMCA team, will help conduct the practices here, Tomlinson says.

"If this thing develops, we may schedule some games yet this season, the Memorial Building manager added. "Some of the best volleyball teams in the country are in this section of Ohio and Western Pennsylvania."

Ohio's Class AA, A Cage Champions Suffer Defeats

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Class AA and Class A basketball champions were beaten Friday night for the first time this season.

Victims of the upsets were Dayton Roosevelt in Class AA and Salem Local in the A division.

Hamilton Garfield stunned the Teddies in an 85-83 thriller that went two overtimes. Belle Center, behind Dick Ricketts' 44-point production, had an easier time disposing of Salem Local, 83-82.

The two losers are ranked first in The Associated Press weekly ratings. Garfield, beaten only by

Potters Upset; Cunningham Hoops 33

Despite a 33-point scoring effort by All-Ohio candidate Kenny Cunningham and 22 markers by Kenny Miller, the East Liverpool Potters were upset 69-67 last night by a host New Philadelphia cage squad which previously had managed to win only two of 10 games.

The defeat for East Liverpool leaves the Potters with a record of seven wins and three losses.

East Liverpool led throughout most of the first half but the Quakers made up a four-point deficit in the last two quarters to cop the victory.

Cunningham, who went into last night's fray averaging 21.7 points per game, kept the nets burning for 14 fielders and five of six foul tries for his 33 markers. Cunningham had 33 points one other time this year, that also coming in a losing effort—63-65 to Alliance in the Potters' first game of the season.

The East Liverpool reserves won their game last night, 51-45.

BOWLING TIPS
Number Six

SCORING: The method of scoring in bowling is unusual but not difficult, when properly planned. Scoring in league play however is not easy and requires practice and strategy.

The prime object in league scoring is to prevent the opponent from seeing the score sheet at anytime. This means three of your team members must play a more serious version of musical chairs, thereby preventing any one opponent from occupying either of the two scoring chairs.

The frustration and anxiety brought about by concealing the scores will noticeably impair your opponents' accuracy. Below are a few suggested ways of accomplishing the aforementioned:

1. Eat onions.
2. Employ screening methods when changing chairs similar to those used in basketball.
3. Smoke big black cigars. (Bob Tubbs can tell you where to buy these.)

Ship

He made the statement at about 8 p.m. Friday night.

A U.S. Navy spokesman said the Santa Maria had "drastically changed" course and apparently was veering away from the direct course it was taking toward west Africa.

Dennison gave Galvao assurances the Navy would take no action against the Santa Maria if he carried out his announced willingness to release the passengers, who were trapped when the self-styled revolutionists sized control of the cruise ship Sunday in the Caribbean.

Galvao, a former captain in the Portuguese army, and 70 armed followers boarded the luxury ship at stopovers in Venezuela and the Dutch West Indies. They proclaimed the liner "liberated" in their announced attempt to overthrow Portugal's strongman, Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar.

Dennison made the safe conduct offer in an exchange of messages with the Portuguese insurgent leader without making any political commitments.

Two Crashes Reported On Slippery Streets

Icy streets were blamed for two auto accidents in the city Friday.

Emerson C. Pegg, 50, of East Palestine was cited for failure to stop in an assured clear distance after a two-car crash at 1 p.m. on E. State St., just west of City Hospital.

Police said a panel truck, operated by Steven L. Hoffman, 31, of 1573 Ridgewood Dr., stopped to turn into a parking lot when Pegg, who was also traveling east on E. State St., applied his brakes and skidded 60 feet into the rear of the truck.

In another accident at 4:30 p.m. at the intersection of S. Lincoln Ave. and Pershing St., a car driven by John E. Sweet, 37, of 2169 S.E. Blvd., stopped for a traffic light and was struck from behind by an auto operated by Alfred E. Pekar, 32, of Akron who couldn't get stopped on the icy pavement.

Clinic

Harold Deldrick of Lisbon RD, maintenance man.

Lewis P. Kramer of Columbiana resigned as painter in December to accept the position as scaler of weights and his former position is still vacant.

Re-hired were Russell Reichenbach, county dog warden; Harold McCall of Rogers, assistant dog warden; Oscar Lodge of Lisbon, Courthouse fireman; and Leo Chamerlain and Mrs. Frank Stockman of Lisbon, Mrs. Leona Dore of Salem and William Brown of Salineville, custodians.

The vote was two to one on these issues. President Hunston and vice-president Greenstein voted for the transfer and the change of personnel, and Frank Wilson of Wellsville voted against the issues.

The six employees who will be replaced were rehired on two 15-day extensions since the first meeting this year of the commissioners. Democratic County Chairman Don Gosney of Columbiana, had objected to their expected dismissal, claiming they were covered by the Civil Service laws of the state.

Prosecuting attorney G. William Brokaw, at the request of the commissioners, advanced an opinion that the commissioners' appointees are not protected by Civil Service.

Wilson, the lone Democratic member, contacted James Welsh, director of the State Department of Personnel, and was informed that the commissioners have 14 provisional appointees who possess civil service status until such time as an examination is given for their positions.

It is expected that a civil suit may be filed to check the validity of the dismissal of the employees. The commissioners at their meeting Friday did not announce the hiring of any new personnel. Their next meeting will be Monday.

Fliers

Mayor Ed Camp head the welcoming party.

After brief ceremonies, McKone and Olmstead will be whisked off to their homes near Forbes Air Force Base with an air police escort.

Air officials say guards will be posted at the McKone and Olmstead homes to keep away the curious.

When the fliers landed here Friday, reporters were not permitted to interview them. Neither were they permitted to get close enough to overhear what was said after the fliers landed.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said the restriction was imposed because the State Department did not want to jeopardize prospects of improving relations with the Soviet Union.

Salinger said there was "a general understanding" that the fliers "for some period of time will not grant interviews."

Cuba

San prosecutor would ask for the death penalty.

Two veteran Cuban lawyers, Anibal Pacheco and Luis Raul Flotas, were retained to defend the six.

The Castro regime's continuing propaganda barrage against insurgents in the south-central mountains of Cuba suggested the government is preparing a new all-out assault on the counter-revolutionary bastion.

Reports from Miami that two top members of Castro's revolutionary movement had fled Cuba swept through Havana. But there was no official comment on the reports that Maj. Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo and Maj. Armando Fleites were among 19 Cubans who landed in Florida.
